SINDELFINGEN, TRADITIONAL CITY WITH A FUTURE

Experience Sindelfingen as a traditional as well as modern and cosmopolitan city. Our municipality of 64,000 people welcomes all nationalities and offers remarkable cultural and culinary variety. Its lovingly restored buildings and cultural monuments not only put Sindelfingen on the German Half-Timbered Houses Route – with its Romanesque church of St. Martin, the city also has a gem dating back to the times of the early monastery. Sindelfingen is not only an important business location for the automotive industry. It is also home to many trend-setting small and medium-sized businesses involved in high-tech as well as research and development.

ST. MARTIN'S CHURCH

One of the treasures of Sindelfingen is already signposted on the A81 motorway: St. Martin's Church. Explore one of the most important Romanesque monuments in the southwest of Germany. A church was already built on this site as far back as the 8th century. Today's three-nave, Romanesque basilica was built back in the 11th and 12th century. It was consecrated in 1083 and structurally completed in 1133. A wealthy monastery was grouped around St. Martin's Church for 400 years until Count Eberhard and his mother Mechthild sold the establishment to Tübingen in 1476/77 for the founding of the university.

MERCEDES-BENZ FACTORY TOUR SINDELFINGEN

How do you build the best? Experience the birth of the Mercedes-Benz upper mid-size and luxury class during a guided factory tour. The Sindelfingen plant has been setting standards in automotive construction for more than a century. On the guided factory tour, you will see at first-hand how pioneering developments from the Mercedes-Benz Technology Centre are transformed into perfection.

Take your family on a visit to the Mercedes-Benz Customer Centre. We are there for you Monday to Friday (8am – 4pm). The guided factory tours – also fascinating for children 6 years and older – are free for up to 20 participants. Please book your slots as early as possible.

Individual special guided tours

With a group between 21 and 40 participants, the tour is conducted exclusively for you and costs € 200 (except for trainees, students, school pupils and interns). For the transport during the tour, the group will need its own bus, which must be arranged independently. The dates must be coordinated individually with us. The minimum age for these tours is set at 14 years.

Please note: Your enquiry must be either by phone or in writing, for 15 people or more in writing only. You will need your own bus for the special guided tours.

We would also be delighted to welcome you to our Mercedes-Benz Shop during your visit. In keeping with our motto "The best or nothing", in our store you will find lots of other unique products of outstanding quality.

EXPERIENCE ART AND CULTURE

Art and culture are as much part of Sindelfingen as the Mercedes-Benz plant and the marble crosswalks. Whether contemporary exhibitions, modern art or a voyage back in time to the beginnings of craftsmanship in Sindelfingen: Sindelfingen's museums and galleries will delight you with thematic opening events and historical exhibitions.

SCHAUWERK Sindelfingen

SCHAUWERK SINDELFINGEN MUSEUM

The SCHAUWERK Sindelfingen museum has presented the comprehensive collection of over 3,000 works by Peter Schaufler (†) and Christiane Schaufler-Münch since 2010 and is now one of the leading addresses for contemporary art in Southern Germany. You will be fascinated by high-ranking German as well as international art from the 1950s until today. The focus is on works in the abstract, concrete and minimalist tradition of the 20th century. Participate in one of the guided tours or book a special tour at fuehrungen@schauwerk-sindelfingen.de.

ATELIERHAUS STUDIO

The studio founded by the artists of Arbeitsgemeinschaft Atelierhaus in the city's old monastery is a real pearl. The historical and romantic setting across from St. Martin's Church provides the backdrop for daily artistic figures as well as regular exhibitions and special projects. The studio building association already celebrated its 25th anniversary in 2014. A visit to the small but exclusive studio building is definitely worth your while.

HOUSE OF THE DANUBE SWABIANS

After the city of Sindelfingen had taken over sponsorship of the Danube Swabians from the former Yugoslavia in 1964, the "House of Danube Swabians" was set up at the foot of the Goldberg hill in 1970. Visitors can discover a wide-ranging collection of Danube Swabian heritage. The extensive Danube Swabian literature can be accessed in a modern specialised library and about 200 images document the ethnic group's artistic work. The historical exhibition room shows you everything about the old homeland and the theme of "flight and displacement". The Danube Swabian room with its original furniture allows you to experience the by-gone era up close. In addition, special exhibitions and musical events are regularly held in the house's foyer.

SINDELFINGEN CITY GALLERY

The Sindelfingen City Gallery was founded in 1990 as a place for contemporary art. The Berlin architect Joseph Paul Kleihues converted the classicistic building into a museum and extended the building with an octagonal exhibition room, the octagon. The Lütze collection provides the gallery with important modern and contemporary art works. The exhibitions present contemporary works by both national and international artists. Events are regularly held there. Whether after-work events or children's tours, the gallery offers exciting art experiences for all ages. The gallery is centrally located along the market square. Admission is free.

CITY MUSEUM – HISTORY COMES ALIVE

The City Museum is located in the heart of historic old town in the old city hall from 1470 and in the adjacent salt house from 1592. The exhibition highlights the city's history from the city's founding to the present. The panelled rural living room from the 19th century and the detailed city model showing Sindelfingen around the year 1830 deserve special attention. Archaeological finds and references to the former provincial town supplement the tour and breathe life into the past.

Weaving Museum

WEAVING MUSEUM, WEAVING BASTION

Sindelfingen has a long weaving tradition. Immerse yourself in the world of weaving. The weaving museum in the former Sindelfingen weaving school offers you detailed insight into Sindelfingen's importance as a weaving city in Württemberg, especially in the 19th century. The museum shows the development from hand weaving to machine production and its impact on the city. One highlight are the functional looms, including a Jacquard loom whose technology was an important milestone for the further development of new technologies.

HELPFUL INFORMATION

To make your stay in Sindelfingen as comfortable as possible, we have provided a few tips relating to access, parking and tourist information.

S-train station Sindelfingen

CONNECTIONS TO THE REGION

Sindelfingen is easily accessible via all means of transport: The Stuttgart-Echterdingen international airport and Messe Stuttgart trade fair grounds are just 15 minutes away by car. Moreover Sindelfingen has three connections directly to the 81 motorway. Three S-Bahn (suburban train) stops also facilitate access by public transport.

PARKING

Our parking guidance system makes finding your way child's play. Around 4,000 parking spaces in the city centre offer easy access to the shops, the pedestrian area and city hall. RV travellers can stay on the parking spaces at the Sindelfingen swimming centre.

PUBLIC TOILETS

Public toilets are marked on the map of the city centre. As part of the "Nice Toilets" project, restaurateurs, department stores and other sponsors make their toilets available to the public. The businesses involved are marked with a logo at the entrance.

WI-FI

Free Wi-Fi access for all visitors is provided at the market square and Wettbachsquare.

"FAIRY GODMOTHER" INITIATIVE

Don't worry if your children are out and about on their own at times. With the "Fairy Godmother" initiative, helpful Sindelfingen citizens and entrepreneurs provide children with advice and assistance at any time. Participating businesses, companies and institutions are marked with a relevant sticker.
